SUNDAY MORNING......DEC. SO, 1600 The Republican party seem to think that the theory of the Government, not al-lewing the right of secession, but requiring the execution of law by force, is to be cartheory is wie in the present instance.

The Union men of the South are estopped stances of the case. The law has been most extent that many a man gives up his prop law themselvee, before they can be allowed to execute law by coercion.

South Carolina has just as much right to disregard her obligations to the Union as Vermont has to trample under foot one of & Co as the other; and until there is some way devised to cource Vermont, we can't apply coercion to South Carolina. We don't justify South Carolina at all

She is acting contrary to her best interests, in our cricion. She is not taking the lawless way. But compulsion must not be partial. . We can't help a guilty party, that committed the first offense, to apply coering entirely wrong. The Republican party are very ready now to execute law; anxious to execute law. It's a sworn duty to execute law; but we do not believe that any slave triving to unllify the Fugitive Siave law. It soundness may be said that Mr. Lincoln is not responsible for all this. He has not been guilty of an Illifection. He belongs to the party that has been guilty. He was supported by them and elected by them. He is their President. It is his misfortune, If not guilty, that he is identified with those that are, and is expected to get for them. A CENTRAL CONFEDERACY .- If these dissolving views are to go on, we think, a Central Confederacy, leaving out New England and the cotton States, would get along in peace. The people of these central States are moderate, no worse than other people, and no better than they onght to be. The people of New England are mostly too hely, and those of the cotton States too patriotic, to live in peace with their neighbors. The right of secession ecems to be

Minutes, Hanner Hones & Co:

Gendenan: On last Saturday night, according to a regular oall, about ave hundred stored voters assembled at St. Clare's Hall, for the purpose of passing Union resolutions. After some disorder, caused by the notorious Dismininist of this city, Union resolutions were passed. Upon scall for a division on the vote adopting the resolutions, it was discovered by the course of generations, has been forgotten.
